State Bonds--- A Review of the Closing Prices of the Market

WALL STREET, MONDAY, Feb. 22, 1875.

It is a fact which bears significantly upon the Anancial situation that on both sides of the Atlanic and in all the large money centres may be witnessed the anomalous condition resulting from an abundance of capital yet unemployed and a prevailing depression in trade. Whether the cause for this peculiar state of affairs exists alone in America or Europe, or is common to both countries, is a comprehensive question that need not be here discussed; but the ablest political economists agree that while the commercial world is under the influence of such vast monetary changes as are observable in France and Germany capital ishness thus engendered. When France returns to specie payments and its bank can give to the world a portion of its present immense hoard; when Germany suspends its withdrawal of gold for coinage purposes and completes its new system of circulation, capital may enter upon a new career, and, in suffering less from

RAPID FLUCTUATIONS, induce greater confidence among those who invest either in speculation or legitimate trade. America, nowever, has contributed not a little to the unsettlement of the financial situation. We have "gone to protest" on an immense amount of promissory notes. In the single item of railroad bonds the sum in defauit since January, 1874, is reported on high authority at the extraordinary figure of $567,028,639, and the number of com-panies in default at 122. On the American bonds held abroad the amount said to be 'in default is $143,000,000! Is it not natural that, under such a condition of affairs, distrust should be excited and the capitalist shrink from incurring further responsibility? From a statement in the Econo te Francais of the 23d January we find that the total investments of capital in 1874 for railroads are reported at $466,000,000 against $964,000,000 in 1873, a decline of more than onehalf. In England the railway enterprises were offered capital during the year 1874 to the amount of £21,194,000, of which sum the new railroads attracted only £4,010,000, while the older companies received £17.184.300. These FIGURES SPEAK VOLUMES in illustration of the thought that everywhere in civilized Christendom the speculative mind has undergone a change with reference to values, and is guided by greater caution than ever in the sesee the effect in the gradual "dry rot" of certain active speculative shares, and still another phase of it in the strength with which really good se curities like government and the old dividend paying bonds are upheld. Yet the same general uncertainty, the same locking of capital that is observable in Europe, will continue to exist here, until, in the grand round of events, stagnation is succeeded by business activity and the opening of the monetary reservoir. Gradually the country is moving to this point; but it is everywhere evilower pressure. As an inflated currency and the mad use of it have produced depression, so will a return to sound financial principles and the re-demption of the pledges of the public faith produce strength. Millions of workers are in the waiting upon this process of change, and when at capital will move hand in hand with growth, and we shall enter upon a new cycle of financial and commercial prosperity.

THE METHODIST MINISTERS.

The feature of the regular meeting of the Methodist preachers yesterday was an address by Henry Varley, of London. His address was a Scripture exposition rather than a discourse in the ordinary sense. He took the life of Jacob as a basis of his remarks, and brought out several interesting points in that patriarch's character that are rarely if ever noticed or noted by ministers in this day or country. Jacob's first great failure, according to Mr. Varley, was when he conspired with his mother to deceive his father.

And then see, said Mr. Varley, how this reacted upon him during the subsequent twenty years. He never saw his mother again; he sell into the hands of his grasping uncle Laban, of Padan Aram, who deceived him greatly in the matter of a wife, and then excused the deception by the most biting sarcasm that the speaker ever read:-"It must not be so done in our country; it may be done in your country; and you, Jacob, have had mething to do with deception, whereby you robbed your prother of his birthright." But some one says the promise was made to Jacob. Very well; the time and manner of its fulfilment should be the time and manner of its infilment should be left to God, who made the promise. Jacob was rightly named—supplanter, or deceiver. He kept up this spirit of deception during his twenty years' residence in his uncle's house, and so little feligious influence did he exert over the family that they remained idolaters, and even his beloved Rachel at her departure stole away her father's gods. The same spirit of deception is apparent in the separation of his flocks into nine divisions, and his present to his brother Esau; and the ridiculousness of the latter's 400 armed men when they saw the two brothers weeping on each other's neck was vividity pictured by Mr. Variey, Jacob's wrestle with the angel was, according to the speaker, rather a wrestle of God with him to subdue his will and to induce him to conless his sin. He had offered a very nice prayer, but there was no confession of his deception in it. One link was missing. "What is thy name?" asked the angel. His answer supplied the missing his—"Jacob, the deceiver, the supplanter." Confession having now been made the Lord answered him, "thou shalt be no more called Jacob, but Israel shad be thy name." Mr. Variey wondered why Christians, and especially ministers, were not oftener alone with him.

It was decided to hold a memorial service next Monday morning for Dr. Brown. The preachers subsequently went to the Central church, where they held a conference and took action in regard to the death and funeral of their brother, with whose remains a committee went to Vermont with the family. leit to God, who made the promise. BROOKLYN BAPTISTS.

DEDICATION OF A NEW CHURCH YESTERDAY. The Baptists resident in Gowanus and vicinity try by dedicating their new house of worship, and is situated at the corner of Fourth avenue and Fifteenth street. The interior of the edifice was nandsomely decorated by floral contributions, banners bearing biblical devices and flags in profusion. There were present the Rev. Drs. J. B. Thomas, D. Reed, George Anderson, W. T. Dixon, M. Bromley, G. Backus, J. R. Donner and J. Lawson, the latter being the rector of the new church. The assemblage was very large, filling all the seats. After an organ voluntary, the anthem "Hear my Prayer, O Lora," was rendered by the choir. "Old Hundred" was then sang by the congregation, which was 10!lowed by the hymn "Coronation" and reading of the Scriptures. The sermon was preached by Rev. J. B. mas, D. FUNERAL OF REV. DR. BROWN.

The obsequies of the Rev. Stephen D. Brown, D. D., late Presiding Elder of the New York District (N. Y.) Conference, took place yesterday in the avenue, near Fourteenth street. Bisnop Janes presided and directed the exercises. The Scripture lessons were read by Rev. Dr. Curry, and Dr. C. D. Foss offered prayer. The pulpit and altar were filed with ministers of the New York, New York East and neighboring Conferences, and a host of them also occupied the front seats or stood along in the aisles. There were proundly not less than 200 prescners present. Among those in the pulpit or altar were Drs. Curry, Crawford, Vall, Hurst (of Drew Seminary), Wise, Hedstrom, J. M. Freeman, Warren (of Brooklyn), Bottome, Abbott, Roche, Lioyd, of Poughkeepsie; Waddell, of Tarrytown, and others prominent in the Church in city and country. After the choir had sung as an anthem the hymn, Beyond the smiling and the weeping,
Dr. M. D'C. Crawford, Presiding Elder of the

Poughkeepste District (N. Y.) Conterence, delivered Poughkeepsie District (N. Y.) Conierence, delivered a memorial address on his late colleague, who, he re arked, was a native of Vermont, his father being for many years large of the Supreme Court of that State. Dr. Brown sudded haw in his lather's office, and was admitted to the Bar; but his conscience troubled him and he gave up the law for the ministry, and in 1837 was admitted into the Iroy Conference. One of the first fruits of his ministry was the conversion of his lather and mother and family. In the lourth year of his ministry he was stationed in Burlington, Vt., where ever afterward he was looked upon as the father of the Church in that place, so successful had been his labors there, and the impress of his ministry remains to this day. He was sent by the Troy Conference to the General Conference. He was afterward transferred to the New York Conference, and was retransferred to the Troy Conference and back again to New York. Conference and back again to New York. He was stationed in this city successively in Bedford street church, in Central control, where his function was held yesterday, and in Eghty-sixth street. Since 1871 he has been Presiding Elder of the New York district, Dr. Crawford portrayed the character and the attainments of the decessed, and indicated the qualities which made him such a lavorite every where—simplicity of manner, lathfulness as a friend, a clear, intellectual and conscientious adherence to duty and to the Interests of the Church. There was no man in the Church so fully consecrated to his work as was Dr. Brown, and no oner man in the ministry could die and leave him (Dr. Crawford) of lonely as he left while he spoke. His deata was not very sudden, but it was unexpected a memorial address on his late colleague, who, he

His remains were taken by the lour P. M. train to his native soil, there to be interred. Many of his brethren accompanied the body to the depot, his long and faithful ministry and his sudden death have greatly impressed his brethren. by himself. THE THAW.

The continued mildness of the weather is exercising a marked influence upon the ice in both the North and East rivers. Now there is little obstruction from this cause to be met with, and navigation by the numerous steamers, ferryboats ity without the attendant concomitants of delay but a few days since. It is not expected, however, that the trouble is altogether over, for the Immense mass of ice (which has obtained extraordinary thickness) in the Hudson at and above the warm rays of the son, within a few days, cause a great deal of inconvenience, if it does not result in serious damage to the shipping. Should a heavy rainstorm occur, similar to that which happened last year on the breaking up of the winter, and bring about

A PRESHET, the effect will be, it is thought by old pilots, to bring down the ice in large fields and floes, which, from their great weight and thickness, will carry everything before them with irresistible force. In fact, it is said that thousands of doilars' worth of property in the shape of ships and boats must are taken by hauling all vessels into sale berths on the first indications of any such storm. Yesterday the ferryboats plying between New York and New Jersey made their trips with something like old time regularity. The ice was nearly all broken up into small cakes, although now and then a huge hummock was met with which had to be steered clear of. As a general rule, however, these miniature icebergs were passed over and broken miniature leebergs were passed over and broken up into fragments by the ferryboats. In the slips there was still considerable quantities of ice gathered, but it was too small and too often disturted by the meoming and onigoing boats to cause any inconvenence.

ON THE EAST RIVER

the ice has ceased to be of any moment and offers scarcely any impediment to traffic, it having become so proken up and so small in quantity. The ferryboats are all running on time, and the opinion scems to prevail that there will be no more trouble experienced. Along the different docks some degree of activity is again to be witnessed, and vessels which have for some time been compelled to he idle in their berths, on account of the impossibility of making their way out to sea through the ice, are now bending their sails and setting things to rights generally, preparatory to clearing out on their way to their several ports of destination.

THE SOUND

clearing out on their way to their several ports of destination.

THE SOUND

IS Still full of ice, and it is with the some difficulty that vessels make their way through. The various steamers running between New York, New Haven, Hartford, New London and other points were to resume their trips yesterday via Heil Gate, and endeavor to force a passage.

The FIRE HYDRANTS.

The work of thawing out the fire hydrants in the lower part of the city was continued yesterday by different fire companies by means of steam outlined from their engines, when have been taken around the streets for that purpose. The continued rising in the temperature of the air is commencing to ted, and if it but lasts for a few days longer the danger from frozen hydrants will entirely disappear. In the meanwhite the Fire Department has given instructions to have the men under their control go around with their engines and do what they can to clear out the ice, and put the hydrants in such a state that if a fire shound oreak out water can be obtained without delay.

the nydrants in such a state that if a fire should break out water can be obtained without delay.

A PLAN.

Mr. Culyer, the Chiel Engineer of Prospect Park, suggests a plan by which hydrants may be prevented from reezing. By this plan it is proposed that all the street hydrants shall be placed below the surface of the sidewalk, and to encoae them by either a brick chamber or cast fron cylinder, so that they can be got at easily. At the botrom of the barrel he would place a vitrified pape connecting with the sewer, by which all water remaining in the hydrant after it is closed will be immediately conveyed away, and, as the water is admitted to the hydrant by a valve four and a half or five leet below the surface, there will be no chance for the water to freeze. All hydrants are now provided with a sell-acting valve, through which he waste water in the barrel is supposed to be removed when the hydrant is closed after use; but this valve does not all ways act. No provision is made by which the waste can escape except by percoanton through the ground. When the ground is frozen it will be readily seen that the water must remain above the valve and soon becomes solid ice. Mr. Culyer's plan obviates all this.
